What services does your organization provide that are not available elsewhere?

For almost 50 years, the Council has advocated for appropriate and innovative non-medical supports to help keep elders living independently and in their homes for as long as possible. Not only is this the preference of most elders, but has also been shown to offer significant physical, emotional and financial benefits to seniors, their families, and the communities they have lived in. Our practice is to work with clients to help implement their choices. We are not aware of another Central Vermont organization providing such a wide range of support and prevention services designed to honor and support the wishes of aging Vermonters to be able to remain living at home in their communities.

As the number of seniors continues to grow at high rates in Vermont, and as our lifespans increase, the Council on Aging is uniquely situated to continue to lead in providing vital and innovative supports to help central Vermonters maintain health and quality of life as they age in their homes and communities.

Many physicians, community health groups, social service agencies, community leaders, families and friends routinely refer seniors and family caregivers to the Council on Aging for nutrition, care coordination services, access to benefits, dementia caregiver respite, long term care planning, transportation, and volunteer supports.

In addition to our direct services and supports for innovative programming for seniors, Central Vermont Council on Aging provides outreach and education services to its service population including SHIP counseling (Medicare Workshops and individual Medicare enrollment assistance); funding and technical assistance for meals-on-wheels sites; civic engagement through our Senior Companion Program and RSVP (55 and older volunteers); family caregiver support and education, including a six-week caregiver course, bi-monthly caregiver teas and administration of the state's respite grant for dementia caregivers.

The Council also supports innovative, evidenced-based programs for seniors and caregivers such as Fall Prevention Tai Chi, Yoga, Movement, Memory Café (for those with dementia and their caregivers) and the creative arts.

CVCOA and its partner Area Agencies on Aging around the state educate policy advocate for appropriate resources and services for our growing aging population.

What (if any) organizations provide similar services?

Central Vermont Home Health and Hospice provides some limited case management services for specific programs. SASH provides some senior activities programming for seniors in housing facilities.

If applicable, how does your organization collaborate with organizations providing similar services?

Collaboration with Central Vermont Council on Aging community partners is critical to service enhancement and delivery. We work closely with or partnered with the Department of Aging and Independent Living, The Health Center, GMTA, Stagecoach, Central Vermont Home Health and Hospice, Tender Loving Care, Project Independence, Blueprint for Health, SASH, Gifford Community Health, University of Vermont Center on Aging, University of Vermont Central Vermont Medical Center; 14 Senior Centers and 12 Meal Sites, including Twin Valley and Montpelier Senior Activity Center. We share information across state lines with Maine and New Hampshire.

In what way are the services your organization provides preventative in nature?

Central Vermont Council on Aging services are designed to help keep elders living independently and in their homes for as long as possible, rather than in residential facilities which are far more expensive. Preventative services include Nutrition (home-delivered and congregate meals); evidence based wellness activity programs; caregiver supports (emotional and financial), and long-term care plans to allow aging Vermonters to live at home.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

How did your organization determine the amount of the funding request? Please explain in detail your reasoning for any increase or decrease (use attached sheet if necessary).

Central Vermont Council on Aging considers the historical level of support shown by the town, the growth in the senior population, and the extent of service provided to town residents when determining the amount requested.

In addition, RSVP is now a Central Vermont Council on Aging-sponsored volunteer program. RSVP serves volunteers 55 and older who deliver Meals on Wheels, provide transportation, offer companionship, lead wellness programs and more. This application consolidates the support that East Montpelier has previously granted to RSVP with this request from Central Vermont Council on Aging. Last year, RSVP supported 6 volunteers from Plainfield who donated a total of 305 hours to the community.

If approved by the town, how will your organization use the funds?

Town Funding helps to support our care coordination services department, dedicated to working directly with individuals, usually in their homes, to assess clients' needs, and to develop a long term care plan with the client. Central Vermont Council on Aging is committed to best practices for a client-centered approach to our care coordination services, respecting the dignity, self-determination, and independence of seniors.

Do any of your grant sources require local financial commitment? Explain.
